Sublimation

Custom made illustrated apparel

Sublimation in its simplest form is a process where ink is printed on special paper using high speed ink jet printers and transferred into (not onto) the fabric using heat and pressure.

In short, Digital Sublimation is the process where sublimation inks are super heated (200°C), with ink turning into a gas and transferred into fabrics creating a bond & when the ink cools it becomes solid once again. The polymer 'pores', under heat open, allowing the gas to permeate the polymer, effectively changing the properties of the polyester from white (all Sublimation starts life as white as there is no white ink) to the colours infused.

This allows for a smooth transition from what you see on your screen to what is seen on fabric. There is almost no limit to the amount of colours with this process and this allows for the natural performance moisture wicking materials to remain breathable and also maintain strength and durability. Since sublimation inks become part of the fabric, the images will not fade, crack, or peel and unlike heat transfers or silk screen, the sublimation process allows Performance fabrics to maintain full breath-ability.

Since every square cm of your garment (seam to seam) can be sublimated, with individual colours, logos, numbers and names so it is safe to say that sublimated garments are the only "true" full custom garments available.

Sublimated uniforms and apparel have no restrictions in designs, colour, name, numbers or logos.
If you can imagine it, this can be made and this is why we say that sublimation is the only true "custom".

Most manufactures say they offer custom but with many, it is limited to changing colours on a pre-set design, yet we offer both!

With 'Cut & Sew', logos, names and numbers are restricted to their locations, styles and sizing but by doing custom apparel/uniforms allows you to create a brand identity at your business, organisation, school, club or team to enhance profile and pride.
